Environment and Tree Plantation

Words: 499, Characters: 2994 LEVEL: EASY

The natural environment is the greatest gift of God to humanity, and it includes 80 everything around us like the air we breathe, the water we drink, and the soil we walk 167 on. Trees are the most vital part of our beautiful environment because they act like 252 the green lungs of our planet Earth. They constantly absorb harmful carbon dioxide 335 gas from the dirty air and release fresh oxygen, which is absolutely necessary for the 422 survival of all human beings and animals. Without a sufficient number of green trees, 508 life on this planet would become completely impossible. To spread important global 591 awareness about protecting our precious nature, World Environment Day is 664 celebrated with great joy and enthusiasm all over the world on June 5 every single 747 year. On this special day, schools, colleges, and local government bodies organize 830 massive tree plantation drives where millions of young saplings are planted in empty 915 public parks and along the highways. Sadly, in the blind race for modern economic 997 development, human beings are cutting down thick natural forests at a very 1072 dangerous speed. This senseless cutting of trees is officially called deforestation, and 1161 it is the main cause of many serious global problems today. When we destroy the deep 1246 forests, we forcefully take away the natural homes of thousands of wild animals, 1327 beautiful birds, and rare insects. As a direct result, many innocent animal species are 1415 slowly dying out and disappearing from the earth forever. Furthermore, the strong 1497 roots of the large trees hold the topsoil tightly together and prevent heavy floods and 1585 soil erosion during the rainy monsoon season. Because we have cut down so many 1664 trees, the average temperature of the earth is rising very fast every year, which 1746 scientists call global warming. The summer seasons are becoming dangerously hot, 1827 and the winter rainfall has become highly unpredictable, causing huge problems for 1910 our poor farmers. It is high time that we open our eyes and take immediate action to 1995 stop this environmental destruction before it is too late. Saving our green 2071 environment is not a very difficult task if every person decides to do their small part 2159 honestly. We can easily start by planting at least one fruit or flower tree in our home 2247 garden or society compound on our birthdays. We should also strictly save drinking 2330 water by closing the running taps when we brush our teeth and repairing leaking 2410 pipes in our bathrooms. Another very simple way to protect trees is by saving paper, 2495 because millions of green trees are cut down every year just to make writing paper 2578 and cardboard boxes. We should always use both sides of a paper sheet and recycle 2660 our old newspapers properly. Protecting the green environment is our supreme moral 2743 duty, so that our future generations can also enjoy the fresh air, clear blue skies, and 2832
